Read the story and replace the underlined words with suitable pronouns.

Once upon a time, there was a farmer. The farmer had three sons. The three sons always fought with each other. The farmer was unhappy. One day, the farmer called the three sons. The farmer asked them to bring s bundle of sticks. The three sons brought a bundle of sticks. The farmer took out a few sticks from the bundle and asked each of them to break a stick one by one. The three sons easily broke the sticks. Then the farmer gave them the bundle of stick to break. The three sons tried, but could not break the bundle. The farmer taught then that if the three sons stayed together , nobody will be able to bring any harm to them.
